Dear Joan-

In looking over the recent intelligence reports sent to me, I suddenly realized that Intelligence still is operating without true direction.

Here is the way, Intelligence is now,

1. We become aware of a possible source of antagonism.
2. We clip, gather and cross-index file all the data we get on this source of antagonism, being careful to open and establish a file for every individual connected and every organization connected
3. Then we look over the files and select the biggest one.
4. Then we take a look at who we have or what organization we have. If we have an organization we look for who-
5. Now we investigate the person like mad.

We did this with the people who were giving us trouble-we found. The National Mental Health Association and a lead line off into banking and into the airforce- we haven't looked at who in banking or at who in the airforce-we may find further cross-connections and come up with ONE PERSON.

This is what should be happening-

Further, vital reports are not coming through- I know more about what is happening than is reported to me from the Guardian's Office -

Love,

Mary Sue
