'The enemy is stuck in a situation estimate that is probably circa 1958 and has never improved. He's working on a preconceived campaign 12 years out of date. He doesn't get intelligence, his info centre isn't getting any data - they are probably running on press clippings.

'They started in the furthest corner of the world. They got Australia kicked in the head, they think; SA will go, they think; UK will go, they think; in the US he will kick up a screaming storm using these other Enquiries - he thinks - and he thinks we will be wiped out. He has done his think and he doesn't even keep a check on it. A mindless wonder.

'He has an action service, but no reporting service. He has no central Intelligence collecting activity because he's not an Intelligence organization.

'So that is their master plan!

'His situation analysis is out of date and he's lost many of his old hands. Yet he's still talking about how he has wiped them out and it is all going according to schedule.

'It's something like a crazy hunter who would go out to hunt tigers. He'd manage to drive the tigers towards the edge of the wood and ever since he's been talking about how he wiped out all tigers - while there are tigers walking in the back door.

'He substitutes his desire for the fact of it.

'It is a totally failed campaign which is twisting in his hand. All he has done is give us international publicity.

'There will be a heavy attack in the US and it will give us a lot of trouble. But it won't play the way he thinks it will play. Basically it is the Guardians Office that has turned this.

'The only way we can lose is by being inefficient and taking our finger off our number.

'I think personally he'll lose it in SA and in England. But that only includes us being very good. We've got an awful lot to recover from.

'I have a new system to knock them out no matter what they do.

'We started telling them to investigate newspaper reporters who wrote against us - a lot of them bribed, freelancers bought, a lot of officials on this line. Had to figure out how to hurt these guys and still stay legal. They have a vulnerability already worked - several guys have lost their jobs over this. How could they be hurt - all you have to do is spot it, figure out how to cost them their jobs and make them lose it.

'We have some trouble getting the real background dope on these guys but they do pick up what the guy is doing in present time. So we change the procedure to spot it and cost then their jobs every time.

'This is another piece of tech - attack always comes from an individual, not from a group.

'We could do this with some Minister of Health in some state who is pushing for a ban.

'They are in the business of destroying our reputation over the world - that is their overt on which they would pull in the motivator.

'In SA Enquiry - the Commissions lawyer admitted to having used the Melbourne Enquiry Evidence in his Testimony. Three of the members of the Commission are people who instigated the attack in the first place to protect themselves. So it is an invalid Enquiry. We can say there are three members of a communist connected organization so it is not an impartial Enquiry, if we have to.

'An Estimate of the Situation is used to give you your prediction so you can guess what is going to happen unless you act.

'The basic bug in the enemy attack was a false estimate of the situation that we were a danger to psychiatry. They have never varied their situation estimate of how we are composed and their attack is based on a false estimation of the situation. They didn't try to handle it sensibly because their estimate was irrational. So the whole attack is irrational and properly handled it can be made to fail.

'Everything in the attack is crazy. But you have to handle a mad man or he will burn the house down. This is why the Dead Agent caper works so well - it exposes the false estimation of the situation.

'The enemy has been living on a quicksand and it is going to kill him. His omitted datum was his own state and he didn't realize that he couldn't stand up to an attack. He has not been able to handle Clausewitz's first reciprocal. This war is still in a state of the first reciprocal and it won't be in any other state than the first reciprocal.

'He is just a plain ordinary garden variety sitting duck. He can be hit by any changed tactic without ever knowing that it has been changed. Note how often I change my tactics.

'Freedom went back on defense - staged events of defense and didn't get a line of press.

'There is a misdefinition of attack. They'll lose ground if they don't watch it. These events were not covered by the press because they were defensive. It was a bit of a loss. They should be very offensive at this moment. The defensive staged event didn't get covered by the press so they covered it themselves.

'Their high tide was NAMH and they had a little loss on it and fell back a little bit.

'They should be investigating Edinburgh University for psychiatric violations of girl students - things like that. Their Commission must be gingered up, they've dropped off a bit.

'We are using the same troops for attack as for defense, so offensive and defensive actions get mixed up. They really need a shock squad - that's what it is.

'David Gaiman should never have any part of defence tactics - he should cut them off his line.

'Jane should take defensive action and go ahead and mop up the enemy.

'The reason why Gdn's Office mustn't go into the defensive is that it is handling a reactive line. "Attack" is common to every bank. Reactive think is always to follow the attack line so it is very easy to get a whole bunch of people on attack.

'The Guardian's Office can put the vector of attack any way they want, just by attacking.

'When we get attacked, the tendency to follow the attack line will pull in more attack on us. So we must respond with a greater and more effective attack of them. If we counter only with defense, we will only ever get more attack.

'He made some further remarks on the same subject which have to do with CT which explain much about illness - as the same applies to an individual who is himself subject to attack. What is handled on OFlll aligns with the direction of attack, so the person can get ill. This is why the line is so totally reactive.

'He had always known that the Intelligence Service of Genghis Khan and the Communist Intelligence Service had a little in common - now he sees they are the same. Genghis Khan sent out people in advance of his armies to spread fear and to build a reputation of invincibility. This is exactly what the Russians are doing now. Their agents are all over the US spreading the same tale.

Also! Individual psychiatrists are now trying to sue for peace. Shows they are breaking up. A new factor showing up indicating they are in disorder. The pattern is individualized all of a sudden. That's why the Guardian's Office have to keep up the pressure.

'We should continue our attack line and become even more creative in our attacks.

'Does Mo receive a great deal of clippings on psychiatry which you can use attacking? I find that one can get the best of attacks going by using their own material back at them. Their books, articles, news releases - are frequently and most cases 100% usable.

'Anyway, let's hot it up.'
