

Political Report of the 3 Aug. 2003

The political system prior to the great catastrophe of the year 81.500.000 (?) (75 million years ago), was a very interesting one.

The Government of each planet was looked upon like a company that would provide services for the citizens.

There were no taxes and, to be financed, this government issued shares that the citizens bought, thus becoming shareholders of the government. Only those who had shares could vote. The shares provided some interests. Actually, some people would live only from this interest.

In each planet there was a Council much like the Board of Directors of our companies. The shareholders elected this council from time to time. As the government was responsible not only for providing the common services for the society but also a good interest of the shares, it would get sacked and substituted if it behaved badly.

There was a "Governor", the president of the Council and he was normally an OT that stayed in power for a long time. He was looked upon much like a "King" and sometimes the Council would be substituted but he would remain in power.

No political coup would be successful in such a system. Furthermore, there was a kind of law enforcement group in the Galaxy that was controlling the legality of the system.

If the government had difficulties in financing, it would issue more shares, get bank loans or ask its shareholders to finance it.

This system was so well adjusted that it remained the same for eons.

But as any other system it had a liability.

Its liability was that the real power was in the hands of those who had the shares, and the shares could be sold and its value was dependent only of the offer and demand for them.

One of the actions on the preparation for incident 2 was the taking over of the major planets. How did they do it?

The only way you could take over a government like this would be to start a buying operation to end up with the majority of shares. But in a well-ruled planet that would be extremely costly.

So there was first a devaluating campaign, followed by a buying offer at a much higher price than the real value of the devaluated shares! This was done (of course) using a banking system where the value of the shares would latter be paid by the shares themselves!

After the taking over of the votes, it was easy to control the planet.

On the other hand, almost all the inhabited planets of the Galaxy had agreed, very long ago, on a central government body, which would solve their discrepancies and issue general law for the entire galaxy. The representatives of all the planets or confederations elected that government, on the basis of simple majority.

This Central Council had a Chairman, which was called the Supreme Ruler.

So, with the majority of planets taken over, the election to the Central Council and of the Supreme Ruler was guaranteed.

That was the political strategy followed by Xenu to go into the position of Supreme Ruler.

After Xenu was put down, a new type of association was set up for the Government of the Galaxy.

There is no more Chairman but a "Coordinator" of a body of counsellors called "The Council of Representatives".

Due to the fear of something similar happening, all the actions and legislations of the council must have always an absolute majority of votes. This makes the Council quite ineffective.

Its reputation has been going down for that reason, as one can do almost anything in the galaxy without any action being taken against him.

There is another reason for that inefficiency and it is that most of the representatives have been in Politics for eons and a lot of them are the very same who were responsible for the election of Xenu! Thus they have a lot of withholds that make them quite ineffective.

The military arm of the council was (and still is) "The Patrol", also called "Galactic Patrol", dependent on the direct orders of one of the representatives, elected by the Sector GP Coordinators as their representative on the Council.

But the representative of the GP is bound to issue only orders approved by the Council...

Now, being established as it is, the council cannot issue orders to correct things that their own members are doing, since they too vote on these issues.

Also, the main goal of the council is to maintain peace on the galaxy, establish order, certify the legitimacy of the Governments and provide help to those who need it. So they avoid, at all costs, any instance of confronting between its members.

Thus, the undercover operations of the governments of Marcab and Espinol United are not "officially" known! So, no action is being taken against them!

Nevertheless, some general directives have been issued (that don't accuse anybody) like the non-interference decree, etc.

So, any group of "revolutionary paranoiacs" who scream about "implanting being done to control the activities on Earth" and some other civilizations, is not very well looked upon by the council members. They are actually looked upon as a "nuisance" more than anything else.

The Council is also very much afraid that, if they take any action concerning it, that would cause a split and start a war in the galaxy.

They are not aware that behind the representatives of both Marcab and Espinol, there are the actual "Espinolians" controlled by the "Xacaries", a bunch of psychopaths (aliens to our Universe) whose aim is to transform everybody into a "perfect abiding citizen" under their control.

One has to be aware that not much help will come from that side since "bigger" political issues are at stake.

The establishment of a network of OTs is the only way to face up to those guys.

But one must also be aware that the Marcabians and Espinolians know about us (OTs) and (believe it or not) they have us at a very high priority, although telling other members of the council that we are just a bunch of hallucinating lunatics.

Their actions against us are, of course, done through their finance and economic control lines, causing enough problems and distractions to slow down our action.

They know it's useless to use their implanting lines against us, although they have devised new types of influences (implanted postulates) like "I'm above all possibility of being controlled" or "Nothing can touch me anymore" which render the being quite easy to control since all new "ideas" are, of course, "his own".

So, most of the time, they use their implanting network against people who are near us in order to cause us problems.

So, it's a liability for a missionary to have any kind of involvement with activities depending on major finance and economic lines. Also it's a liability to have strong involvement with no OT people.

Or one can know about these things, be trained on how to spot the symptoms and how to handle them, and live with it.

Now that we achieved a degree of efficiency on handling psychic attacks, it should be part of any missionary pack the handling of Economics and Financing, and how to handle attacks on others.

What is being prepared?

Looks like all major roles are already taken up by (apparently) very stupid people.

The intention to stop is spread all over. The "crisis" is being sold everywhere and the "why is God".

And, most important of all, people are just conforming with it...

Yes, and mainly through the brainwashing by the media. We see this in Germany right now, where all TV or print media talk about no growth etc. When you look at people in the streets and talk to them, they all can't actually complain for themselves, but instead they think that everyone else is doing bad.

Absolutelly! A lot of moovement is going on over there.

What I perceive is that someone is preparing the "mother of all battles" - and has been doing so for quite some time - on the upper dynamics. But it seems that whenever some of us put their attention to these intentions a bit more strongly and start processing some of the influences, the other side goes into Q&A, so that so far nothing really nasty has happened.

Right! But remember the snail going up a wall. He goes up 1 meter and fall 80 cm, but nevertheless he advanced 20 cm. The same is happening with them. I think the "shades of night" are already falling over Earth.

Thanks for the alert.

I tried to get some insight into the council to pull data. Seems Elron is not around there anymore, no trace of Astar, all I can get is a bunch of stupid politicians, very similar to the UN.

Could it be that they have been taken over like before inc 2 ??

If yes, then we are on our own again.

Espinol yes, especially the Xacari-Fraction. My perceptic of the Markabians is that they are running around like a bunch of confused chicken and don't know what is actually going on, except that something is wrong.

Yes, but we need more data on what is being prepared

As I perceive it, there are a lot of different interests surrounding Earth:

What do you think is being prepared concerning the shades of night??

An overall plan for control of everything, everybody and every mind. There is something (I don't know what) that every alien seems to desire about Earth. And the different groups are fighting to get it. I once came across an idea that there was on Earth a portal of some kind, a passage to somewhere... Anyway it seems to be an important spot in the universe.

I mean on the 3rd of course. I found that the major players are either openly and willingly working with the "invaders" or are pretty much controlled mentally.

Any persons in particular?

Haven't gone into it yet.

ZEITSCHR. DEUTSCH. GEOL. GES., V. 64, P. 344-491

Legends of Madeira

Cavalum (or Cavalém) Legend

The Caves of Cavalum, near the village of Machico at the Madeira Island, are huge caves excavated at the basalt rock that people say are the dwelling of a monster.

Cavalum is a devil under the form of a big horse with bat wings that expels fire through the nostrils.

It is still possible on stormy days, to hear the howls and kicks of the Cavalum echoing on the walls of the caves.

Although some say that this is only the echoing of the thunders, people asserts that it is the monster that was made to stay there against his will.

According to the legend, when the Cavalum was still free, the beast knocked at the door of a church to speak to God. When God asked him what did he want, cavalum told Him he wanted to propose a challenge: the monster wanted to destroy the whole village, church included, and he wanted to see if God, that was already a bit old, had the strength to stop him.

God sent him away telling that he had no patience to such tricks.

But the cavalum, thinking that he had been honest warning Him, gathered the wind and clouds and these woke up a big storm over the village. On the top of the cliff, the Cavalum whinnied happily. God, involved in His blankets in front of the fireplace, did not move, thinking that the Cavalum soon will get bored with his tricks. But the storm grew stronger and the frightened people saw houses and fields being destroyed.

Even the crucifix flew through air taken by the wind by order of the insolent Cavalum. It was then that God started to get mad and decided to finish that childish challenge. His first reaction was to make a boat find the crucifix. Then he called the sun that showed up at once, remove the clouds, the wind and the thunders. The sky went blue and happiness returned to the hearts of man.

Not wanting to be further interrupted, God decided to arrest the Cavalum in the caves where still today one can ear his cries of rage and despair.

Or another version:

The prison of the cavalum

At Machico, in Madeira, there are some huge caves where it is said that the cavalum (devil) is in jail. The legend says that it was the forces of good that imprisoned him after he tried to destroy the world with storms. Truth is that, those who live nearby guarantee that, during the most stormy nights, it is possible to ear the cavalum ragging and despair howls, because of his imprisonment.

re Rosslyn, confirmed. I got the same data, when I checked it.

attached are my first findings, more stuff to follow soon.

Situation Report

Xenu has been freed by the Xacari from his prison in Andromeda.

He escaped to Teegeack, where he arrived around July 3rd, 2005 on board of a Krok-Ship, which is in orbit around Sol beyond the orbit of Pluto.

Xenus purposes are:

1. Get control over weapons of mass destruction
2. Production of implanted beings (BSTs)
3. Export them to some other hide-out in the Galactic Confederacy
4. Use them against the Confederacy and the Imperial family
5. Take over the Confederacy

Until today he did not pick up a body.

Currently he is hiding at Rosslyn Chapel.

These days the Grand Council is being run by "politicians" instead of Loyal Officers.

The 6th Invader Force has obviously arrived in this area of the Universe and is trying to conquer both Andromeda and Milky way.

Elron Elray and Astar Paramegijan are on an undisclosed Mission and not available right now.

All available Forces have been called to arms to fight them, this includes the M-ship, which has been patrolling Sector 9 and controlling travel to and from Teegeack.

Because Teegeack has been declared a Free Zone Planet, the Grand Council will not diminish the forces needed for the war just to protect our planet.

We are on our own.

The State of Affairs on Teegeack

The activities of the Kroks are heating up. Because Xenu and the Xacari are using them as their main helpers, they have – of course – to pay them. This happens by

- a) increased activities in collecting “meat”
- b) causing and spreading of misemotions to supply their “favourite drug” to the Kroks.

“a)” is being done by creating more civil wars, uprisings and “natural disasters” in remote areas

“b)” is being done by ELF and other means of psychotronic warfare.

Xenu will sooner or later try and get a body. This body will have to be in a position where he can get control over the WMDs easily, and where he has control over a big number of Renegades. At the same time he will need a certain status in the political world.

He might get all this by taking over the body of some Islamic head of state, especially when this state is rather fundamentalist and can get the help of the Islamic terrorist groups. A possible target is Saudi Arabia.

He has the help of certain circles of European nobility – some distant relatives of the imperial family – , who got exiled from Central around 1730, because they tried a coup d’état against the ruling dynasty. This probably explains Rosslyn.

When it comes to the implanted Thetans, he can, of course, count on the help of Miscavige et al.

Collection points for the WMDs and Thetans all over the planet are old implant stations, underground bases of the Greys etc.

The Krok-ship is supposed to stay here in orbit around Sol and wait for the deliveries.

Handling:

1. Disable the Krok-Ship (done)
2. Locate underground-facilities and free the Thetans (under way)
3. Watch out for UFO-activities and another Krok-Mainship (under way)
4. Keep Xenu under close surveillance (under way)
5. Try to enlist help from possible allies from other games
6. Increase number of active OTs
7. Recruit new troupes

Well... Hunting led me to the following conclusion:

All these "conspiracy theory", builderbergers, etc, lead to a common denominator: the illuminati and their main influence, Xenu.

But what is behind it? It looked to me there was more to it. Even Xenu must have a logic and a Game. So I went into V/Is and whow! The whole scenario started to unfold. It looks like a very, very long time ago, a solution for the constant wars between galaxies and civilizations was devised. That solution (I only found out as a final cog!) is totally explained in "International City" (1963 shsbc and published by Bill)! But the original plan is not for a City but for a planet! And the planet chosen long time ago was...Teegeeeack! (Probably because it didn't have any commitments to other governments) So this planet has always been populated with all races from the universe. There is no 4th Dynamic on this Planet! There are dozens of 4th Dynamics! The only thing that unites them is the 5th. When time comes Earth will have in itself representatives from all other civilizations well adapted to different areas of the planet. So the intention of this Peace Plan is not only for this Galaxy but for the whole Universe. But it is being fought by those who have no interest in Peace. And the prime opponent is of course Xenu. Knowing all this he can easily 3rd Party all the 4th Dynamics. He must avoid at all cost the creation of a "Universe Planet". He has to create a planetary government so that this is just like any other planet and not represent all other civilizations. Preferably, it would be ideal if, when time comes of the establishment of the Universe Council, there would be just one race on Earth. That would put an end on that plan. Or else, have it making part of Marcab Confederacy so that it's no more independent. The more I see it the more this explains all that is going on on the Planet. Of course even the "Insiders" are mere pawns on the game.

Tried to do some comm with "Beings one can comm with (thelepatidly)" and found the following:

- 1) There are very few Big Beings on the planet;
- 2) There are a lot behind the Moon (!) (waiting?);

3) Central is very eavilly screanned. Why?

Investigated point 3 and found that there has been a take over of Galaxy Central Government and the old one is on exile off the galaxy. Found Ron there and got a message "Do your drills somewhere else!" They don't want their place to be known...

This take over is to prepare the repetition of Inc. 2 but on a Galaxy basis, not just in a sector.

X is putting in action a plan to be elected the representative of Earth to the Galaxy Council and, from there, assume the presidency.

This is going to be done by assuming the body of a peace maker, probably someone who is going to end terrorism on Earth. He will then create a Council outside G7 (or G8) that will bring peace to the 3rd world. He will be very much known and accepted and will present himself (or be presented) to be the Earth representative to the council.
